THE X-RAY
The 1963 X-RAY presents the total man, around which all disciplines evolve. No group can ever consider itself indispensable if the complete man is to be served. A unified spirit of cooperation must exist if we are to preserve the health of humanity and the faithful to the trust of our fellowman.
NO ONE MAN

No man is indispensable . . . To any job or trade . . . No matter how remarkable . . . May be his mental grade . . . Because there are so many men . . . With special qualities . . . That there are always substitutes . . . To fill the vacancies . . . There may be those geniuses . . . We think we cannot spare . . . But when we find we have to do . . . Without a certain one . . . There still is some successful way . . . To get the project done . . . No man is so important or . . . So clever and so strong . . . That no one else could take his place . . . To help the world along.

STUDENT LIFE
Since the beginning of human life on the face of the earth, disease has played an important role in the daily living of man. Initially disease took its toll with man offering little if any resistance through drugs or treatments. Because of the lack of understanding of the disease processes people believed that disease was the infestation of or the occupying of a person by an evil spirit which could be cast out by going through various rituals and, or, offering sacrifices. As the knowledge of disease increased these rituals and sacrifices decreased in number, and the effective treatment of disease processes progressed from zero, to where it is today in a fashion somewhat similar to that of \( x^n \), where \( n \) equals the knowledge of diseases at any given time from the beginning of medical knowledge to the present. It has only been through the development of this medical knowledge that the proper care and treatment of the patient with his disease process has been realized in this year 1963. Because of its magnitude, it is necessary that each individual facet of the medical profession work closely together and co-operate closely to obtain the highest efficiency with respect to the care and treatment of the patient. It is to this cause that hundreds of young men and women have dedicated their lives. In order to qualify for this, these young people have to spend years of training in the various components of medical education, be it medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, nursing, physical therapy, medical technology, hospital administration, graduate studies, x-ray technology, or dietetic work. In order to qualify as a professional person in the various fields, an individual must first become a student. It is of the student that this yearbook is primarily concerned, and in order to properly convey to the readers what the student and his life really means we, the editors, present this section—

STUDENT LIFE AT THE MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA
The time is bright and early one morning the first part of September, any year-1900. The student wakes up, probably early this morning — in the neighborhood of 6:00-7:00 — rushes to put on his clothes, eat breakfast, and make the necessary arrangements to begin his first day at the Medical College of Virginia. Some weeks prior to this the student has received, through the mail, notices of where he is to be at a given time that day. More than likely this will first be registration desk. From here the student goes to one of the auditoriums here at the college or to one of the other meeting places, such as the classroom, and receives lectures from the various members of the faculty.

These lectures usually concern orientation of the student to the particular profession into which he is going. Then comes the big moment — from these words of orientation the student is suddenly thrown into the bedlam of learning all of those "foreign" terms. He is expected to read textbooks, many of which he may have to look up half to three-quarters of the words on the first page in order to understand what they mean. He may even have to look up words found in the definitions of the word he looked up. Soon however, the first two or three days have passed, and the student begins to get some idea of what professional training is like.
Not only does the student attend lectures, but he must study. Various phases of study are resorted to depending on the given environment of the student. These range from home, the dormitory, if one lives there, the library, or possibly even the Egyptian Building or some of the other classrooms in the hospital when the dormitory, library, or even home is not compatible with effective study.
When time permits, those that have strong religious convictions may attend campus vespers or one of the religious groups either during the week or on Sundays.
Some of the most remembered moments are those few hours spent leisurely in the dormitories, locker rooms.
... and Student Activities Centers: and participating in skits and plays, especially with respect to the School of Nursing.
For those who are athletic minded there are intramurals, boy's and girl's basketball teams, bowling, golf, and tennis in the spring. To these people, Mr. Burt Parker is a very well known person.

On the lighter side of things, the various fraternities throughout the year have parties for their members, and particularly for the freshmen of the different schools, especially in the fall of the year. Depending on the situation, be it formal or informal, these parties are held at various places throughout the city. The incoming student has most of these activities at his command.
In an effort to have a well-rounded personality and well-balanced activities the student usually looks forward to getting away from everything and to going home for the holidays if he is unmarried, or maybe taking a vacation with his wife and family, if he happens to be married. The student looks forward to the Christmas holidays, a time for hospital parties before departing, a time to be home with the family, a time for sharing in the spirit of Santa Claus with the Christmas Tree and the giving of gifts, and with most students a time of sharing the Christmas story and its meaning.

This is followed by the celebration of the going out of the old year and the coming in of the new with New Year’s Eve parties.

After this the student returns to the activities of the Medical College of Virginia.
As the basic sciences are completed and the student progresses in his knowledge and efficiency of doing his task, soon the clinical years take hold. Now the student is put with the patient. It is here the work really begins, because now one is faced with having to utilize his entire scope of knowledge. Here one has to be able to talk to the patient, to appear interested in the patient, and at the same time to find out what is wrong with the patient—why he has come to this medical center for help. Maybe he has been in an automobile accident and has sustained a fractured femur, maybe his complaint consists of "my tooth hurts," or maybe a peptic ulcer is causing symptoms. Even possibly she has come to have her baby.

It is at these strategic moments that the wheels at the Medical College of Virginia begin to turn. It is at these moments that the utmost in co-operation is essential—co-operation between the various schools and departments in order that rapid and efficient care of the patient may be carried out. The medical student takes the medical history and does the physical exam—the dental student, if it happens to be a dental problem, will also take his needed history from the patient. The department of X-Ray makes many roentgenograms or special studies that are required to make a final diagnosis. The department of clinical pathology, with which the School of Medical Technology is associated, runs the various laboratory studies required. The student nurses help with the treatments, and the physical and mental care of the patient. The Dietetic Interns help by seeing that the patient receives the proper nourishment while in the hospital. The pharmacy students help by seeing that the medications the patient will receive are correct. The graduate students participate in numerous research projects, many of which are closely or directly related to body or drug chemistry, body physiology, and pharmacology. If the patient is in need of diathermy treatments, whirlpool baths, or passive or active exercises, the Department of Physical Medicine and the School of Physical Therapy are actively involved.
The administrative residents from the School of Hospital Administration make sure that all of the legal matters with respect to admissions and discharges are in order. Thus it can be seen that each person in the various departments and schools all work together in order to give complete and comprehensive medical care to the patients who enter through the doors of the Medical College of Virginia Hospitals.

Soon, however, the training nears its end. All the vacations are spent and all of the courses taken. The reward for all of this comes not only with graduation and the receiving of diplomas, but with the obtaining of the knowledge of ones field of study — the knowledge of how to approach the problem directly and solve it with the greatest efficiency. No longer is the individual a student at the Medical College of Virginia. He has fought his fight of learning, and if he has been a good fighter and a good student, he has won the knowledge and respect due him at graduation. This prepares the student for later life when he will again have to co-operate with others to be sure that his work is carried out in the most effective way.
IN APPRECIATION OF THOSE PERSONS WHOSE INTEREST AND GUIDANCE HAVE ENABLED THE STUDENTS OF THE MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA TO BETTER UNDERSTAND AND MEET THE QUALIFICATIONS OF THEIR CHOSEN PROFESSIONS, WE THE GRADUATING CLASSES DEDICATE THE 1963 X-RAY.
DENTISTRY

We, the Senior Dental Class, wish to recognize one who has demonstrated to our class a profound interest in the teaching and research associated with dentistry. His patience and understanding have been a source of great inspiration. For these reasons we respectfully dedicate our section of this yearbook to Dr. J. H. Weatherby.

MEDICINE

Our dedication . . . to Dr. Charles M. Caravati, a warm friend and a learned physician.

As we go on to the practice of medicine, we shall remember Dr. Caravati not only for his fine lectures and enthusiastic participation in conferences, but also for the indelible impression he has made on us with his well-rounded excellence and dedication to the profession.
PHARMACY

Each September brings new faces and each June puts forth a new group of graduates. In between there is a constant factor that leaves its influence upon all, and that is the faculty.

It is with respect and appreciation that we dedicate this section of the yearbook to you, Mrs. Charlotte Y. Harris.

NURSING, B.S.

We the Nursing Class of 1963 affectionately dedicate our section of the X-Ray to Mrs. Eleanor Browning and Mrs. Patricia Sullenberger... for their understanding, their kindness, their untiring efforts as active class sponsors, and... their friendship.
NURSING, A.D.

I'd like to be the kind of friend that you have been to me,
I'd like to be the help that you are always glad to be . . .
I'm wishing at this very time that I could repay
A portion of the gladness that you have strown along my way.
And could I have one wish, this only would it be,
I'd like to be the kind of friend that you have been to me.

Author Unknown

With this expression of our gratitude for your friendship and guidance, we dedicate our section of the 1963 X-Ray to you, Miss Harriette A. Patteson.

PHYSICAL THERAPY

We the Class of 1963, in behalf of the students and staff of the School of Physical Therapy, humbly dedicate our section of this yearbook to the memory of Dr. Frederick E. Vultee, Jr. As a physician, a leader, a teacher, a friend — Dr. Vultee has been an everlasting inspiration and influence in the molding of our lives as well as our profession.
MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY

The class of 1963 is proud to honor a woman who has given of her time and energy to guide us into our profession.

Never before has there been such a diligent worker who strives to keep the high standards of medical technology.

We want her name to be remembered by all as we dedicate our section of the 1963 X-Ray to her. Miss Lena Thomas, MT. (ASCP).

HOSPITAL ADMINISTRATION

Whereas: This individual did give unselfishly and unceasingly of his time and attention to the education of those who as laymen so greatly needed it; and

Whereas: He so earnestly and tactfully guided us through the maze of hospital law and jurisprudence that in the final analysis we were to have a better understanding of that which is right and just; and

Whereas: We feel that by his counselling and instruction we will be better able to deal, in fairness, with our fellow men; therefore be it

Resolved: That the Class of 1963 dedicates this section of the X-Ray to same said individual.

ADMINISTRATION
The Medical College of Virginia owes much to the leadership of Dr. R. Blackwell Smith, Jr. An alumnus of MCV and a pharmacologist by profession, Dr. Smith has held several government positions and has served as Dean of the School of Pharmacy. As evidenced by the number of professional, scientific and honorary organizations in which he is active, his well-rounded social and professional life makes him a valuable citizen as well as an able educator and a professive leader.

To Our 1963 Graduates:

In 1913, the University College of Medicine, founded in 1893 by Dr. Hunter Holmes McGuire, was consolidated with the Medical College of Virginia.

His son, Dr. Stuart McGuire, in making the Commencement address to the last graduating class said, "From the material of the two old schools a new and stronger school will be builded that will be better than both."

You are the graduates of this "new and stronger school" and our 125th graduating class. In the years to come, I hope you can say of your Alma Mater, as did Doctor McGuire 50 years ago, "I am bound to its interests by every tie of sentiment, of affection and of obligation. For 20 years I have worked for it, I have planned for it, when occasion arose I have fought for it, and when necessity came I have even begged for it."

If your love for your Alma Mater is as great and your devotion to it as unwavering as was Doctor McGuire's, we can ask no more of you as sons and daughters of MCV.

Sincerely,

When in the course of events, it becomes visible that a change is necessary, then fortunate is the society or organization that contains members who strive for this change. The members of the 1961-62 M.C.V. Student Council observed that the honor council structure was outdated and put together a new plan which was accepted.

There is now just one honor council for the entire college instead of one for each school and the vice-president of the M.C.V. Student Council shall be its chairman. There shall be one member from each class in each school. The senior class members of all the schools shall make up the functional council unless complications arise, and then members of the underclasses will be used. This was the first year of the new system.

To those who follow us, we leave this honor council to protect the heritage of M.C.V. by removing from the student body those that detract from it by unfairness, and equally as important, to protect the innocent. May it never depart from the objective of justice to all.

The Student Branch of the Virginia Pharmaceutical Association was organized by the students in 1955. With the help of the parent organization, we strive to promote scholarship, to develop pharmaceutical talent, and to elevate professional thought. With speakers and programs representing all fields of pharmacy, we try to prepare the Pharmacy Students of M.C.V. for their moral, ethical, and social obligations as citizens and as members of the pharmaceutical profession.
STUDENT AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Medical College of Virginia Chapter

The Medical College of Virginia Chapter of the Student American Medical Association is a young club which has rapidly taken its place among the organizations of the school since it was formed in 1952.

The objectives of this organization are: to advance the profession of medicine, to contribute to the welfare and education of medical students on this campus, to strengthen the bonds between the students of the Medical College of Virginia and the students of other medical schools, to make the members aware of the purpose and ideals of organized medicine, and to prepare them to meet the moral, ethical, and social obligations of the medical profession.

Many M.C.V. nursing students are active in District III Student Nurses Association of Virginia. Above the district organization are the state and national divisions. This year M.C.V. is privileged to have Susan Williams serve as president of District III and Nancy Rippey as District III membership chairman. The aims of this organization are to aid in the development of student nurses as democratic citizens, to provide an opportunity for self-expression, and to stimulate an understanding of and interest in the programs of the graduate professional organizations.
STUDENT
SOCIETY

The Student Dental Society was organized in its present form in the fall of 1946 and offers membership to all students in the School of Dentistry. The executive committee of the Medical College of Virginia chapter consists of the officers and two representatives from each class.

The chief objectives of the organization are the promotion of scholarship and professionalism among its members. A student loan fund is made available by the society for any student in need of financial assistance. Throughout the year, the society sponsors guest lectures for its members.
The Dames Club is a chapter of the National Dames Association composed of the wives of interns, residents, and students in the schools of medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, and hospital administration. The club meets once a month and has an interesting program with a speaker at each meeting. The club has two main projects each year. They are to help a family at Christmas and to give to the M.C.V. Emergency Fund. The support of the above mentioned projects comes from several money-making programs. The sponsor for the Dames Club is Mrs. Franklin Bacon, wife of the Dean of Students.

PHARMACY WIVES

The Woman’s Auxiliary of the V.P.A., Student Branch, known as the Pharmacy Wives Club was organized in 1959 and is composed of wives of the pharmacy students. The club meets once a month endeavoring to unite the members in friendship with programs of pharmaceutical education, recreation, civic, and social activities.

Alpha Sigma Chi is an honorary society founded at the Medical College of Virginia in 1938. Its purpose is to serve the college and student body by providing an organization with lofty ideals entirely above smallness, politics, or personal favoritism and to create a spirit of fellowship and co-operation among the four schools.

Members are chosen from the Schools of Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, and Nursing. Those chosen must meet high standards of leadership, scholarship, and character and demonstrate ability and willingness to carry on student activities. An honorary member is chosen annually from among the faculty.

God has given us mountains to climb and the strength to climb them. Our immediate goal has been attained. The foundation has been laid from which must arise the complex scaffolding we call our present day medical science.

We are the beneficiaries of the many who have blazed the centuries-long path which have brought to the people of our day patterns of better health and of unequaled longevity. To us now goes the challenge of serving the ill by recalling age-old wisdom, utilizing our own experience, and by exercising intuition of what might happen in the future.

There are many roads to follow in medicine and each of us, hopefully, will follow that one which is best suited to our particular interests. In our journey it would be wise to pause from time to time to reflect upon the following words of Voltaire. “Nothing is more estimable than a physician who having studied nature from his youth, knows the properties of the human body, the diseases which assail it, the remedies which will benefit it, exercises his art with caution, and pays equal attention to the rich and poor.”

Today marks a new chapter in the history of the class of 1964. Perhaps the most important chapter, for it is between these lines that we will surely discover whether the past two years have gone for naught. Whether or not we have consciously or unconsciously secured the virtues that will allow us to become worthy physicians in every sense of the word.

"Though a little one, the master word (work) looms large in meaning. It is the open sesame to every portal, the great equalizer in the world, the true philosopher's stone which transmutes all the base metal of humanity into gold."

The above thought was expressed by Sir William Osler many years ago, but the meaning applies possibly better today than in the past. Work is not a new word to us. For it has been a constant companion since the beginning of the year and will, I'm sure, remain as such for the rest of our lives, constantly presenting a challenge to both our intellect and ingenuity.

We have met this challenge in the past and succeeded well. For this we may be proud. And because of this constant challenge, our history remains open. For it is constantly on the verge of changing, of turning from good to bad or bad to good. Therefore, a true history can not be written and closed. A preface to our history is all we can hope for since each hour adds a new page to an open future.

This is the price of success and achievement. For they both are but ideals. Never truly attained but merely grasped at only through a maximum effort and a deep personal sense of purpose.

NAME: Class Medicine Sixty-five

ADDRESS: M.C.V., Richmond, Virginia

DATE OF BIRTH: 9/6/61

REFERRED BY: Admissions Board

CHIEF COMPLAINT: This one and one-half year old individual complains that pressing matters have not allowed anytime for relaxation or history making, therefore his body feels constantly tired, worn out and irritable most of the time with periodic hyper-excitability and "don’t give a damn moods."

HISTORY OF PRESENT ILLNESS: On September 10th the patient returned to his job after a three month recuperation period, with a feeling of well being, enthusiasm, and a good attitude, having adjusted well to his recent loss. The return to routine was accompanied by a careful study of the endocrine system and all hormones involved. Individual tests were run at the end of three weeks and the patient’s general reaction was good. Subsequently, headache, nausea, and vomiting began to appear after long hours of reading, using the microscope and attending autopsies . . He complains of vague colored spots before his eyes during and after slide sessions . . He believes his constant backache is related to the position he is forced to assume for several hours daily on a wooden stool. During October and November a feeling of generalized malaise was sustained, growing more and more intense and localized with each new chapter in Robbin’s . . Correspondingly a psychosis developed wherein he felt that a dentist and three other men in white coats were persecuting him by constantly exposing him to infectious and viril microbes. He sought psychiatric help only to acquire an intense distrust of trainmen. By November 21 the fear of microbes was eradicated, but a distrust of trainmen still persists. At the present time he feels his nerves are shot.

SYSTEM REVIEW: Despite isolated symptoms the body is still well co-ordinated and functions well externally.

PAST MEDICAL HISTORY: Similar symptoms of short duration occurred at intervals last year between September and June.

FAMILY HISTORY: Non-contributory.

OCCUPATIONAL HISTORY: All symptoms point to an occupational disease . . Sophomore Syndrome.

SOCIAL HISTORY: Uses tobacco and alcohol; other stimulants and depressives questionable; Inadequate sleep for amount of energy spent daily; Recreation, indoor and outdoor sports. Financial worries, most probable.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION: No time, no place, no room, no case.

DIAGNOSIS: Referred for 2 years and 6 months.

Unnoticed, I observed the 84 freshmen medical students on their way to Introduction to Medicine to meet their instructors and to see their first patient. They were just as excited as all the other freshmen I had watched in the past 50 years. On their first day of classes, they displayed the independent spirit of previous freshmen by riding the forbidden elevator. After walking from the elevator to gross lab, they made their initial incision; and, by the end of the period, they had used all the bandaids.

Histology, like gross anatomy, was another traumatic experience in the lives of these embryonic doctors. Before the first test, they confidently identified each slide. Then they discovered that H & E was not the only stain. This course ended at Thanksgiving with a great sigh of relief.

The mysteries of neuroanatomy confronted 79 of them after the short Thanksgiving vacation. The greatest mystery to them was why they bought the required textbook. Their Christmas party chased their neuro tracts until a much needed vacation caused them to descend and stop abruptly. The new year came too soon, for the tracts ascended and proceeded in every direction as the first neuro exam approached. In time for the final, they straightened out the tracts.

With National Boards completing their anatomy courses in February, they settled down to biochemistry and physiology. Having followed their progress through two quarters, I could predict with certainty their success with this quarter.

Yes, I have seen this process many times — the transformation of the college graduate into the doctor. The class of '66 has reached the second stage of this metamorphosis through the encouragement and helpfulness of their instructors. Much has happened since I first saw these freshmen, and many days of hard work will transpire before I listen to them take the Hippocratic oath. But, they will become good doctors.

How do I know this?
I am McGuire Hall.

SCHOOL OF DENTISTRY
The history of these past four years is, in a sense, a story about hands. For the first gross anatomy test we learned the blood supply, the bones, muscles, and nerves of the hand. We learned how the hand functions, the extensors, flexors, and muscles for lateral movement. That is one story; this is another.

This is the story of faltering hands that unpacked new dental equipment during the first week of school four years ago. These nervous hands assembled the drill and with the rotating bar attempted to inscribe identifying initials. The bar raced all over the instrument before clumsy hands finally brought it to rest. Short but difficult years later, these same hands would be called upon to remove a stained spot smaller than the head of a pin and located on the disto-axial wall on the maxillary left seven of a squirming patient. The hands would respond with accuracy. These nervous clumsy hands would become the patient, reassuring hands that would rest on the shoulders of an apprehensive child.

This is the story of taut hands. Hands that were still turning the pages of the neuroanatomy text long after the midnight hour on the night before the examination. Almost immeasurable have been the times when the palms have been moistened with sweat in anticipation of some big examination or of its outcome. Many have been the times when the hands were momentarily clinched into fists in utter frustration or disgust.

These, however, are also the carefree hands that have hoisted refreshments at a party with fellow students. Among these is the hand that insidiously added the fictitious name of "S. K. Cretes" as the class role was passed around. Also to these hands must go the guilt for investing the roach carver of a fellow student and for the creation of a blackboard full of satirizing hodge-podge labeled the "brachial plexus".

Thanks to the tremendous sacrifices of the respective families, these hands were allowed to write thousands of dollars of checks during the past four years. Appreciation is also extended to our many teachers, both pre-clinical and clinical, who have helped to guide us.

As we sit in the solemnity of the Mosque for the final graduation ceremony, there will be deep concern among us for the future service that looms ahead. To some the future will mean immediate private practice, to others the armed forces, and some will be thinking of additional education.

Suddenly the call of names will break the silence. A right hand will be extended with a brief shake while a left hand grasps a diploma. These parting words climax our endeavors: "Congratulations, Doctor".

Many were the days when we, as freshmen and sophomores, wondered if the time would ever come when we could take our places in the "line-up" in the front lobby to wait for patients, as is the privilege of all upperclassmen. That day, which seemed so very distant when we first came to MCV, finally arrived, but not without the work and worry of innumerable hours of lectures, labs, study and, yes, goofing off too.

Our clinic debut, that sunny day last June, found us with shiny faces, scrupulously sterilized instruments, and blindingly white clinic jackets laundered with sufficient starch to stiffen an elephant. Each of us was armed with a chart and just enough nerve to camouflage a fluttering stomach. Oh such ecstasy, this combination of magnified importance and subdued insecurity!

But alas, as we became accustomed to the role of juniors and settled down to the new routine, the self-importance diminished and the insecurity — of realizing how much there was for us to learn in the remaining two years — increased, and we came to understand that the junior year is not all glory, but rather an extension of our previous labors with the awesome addition of a real live person at the other end of the drill.

But all was not toil and trouble. Many enjoyable hours were spent "dumping the lady" on our favorite opponents around the tables in the lounge, such occasions being provided by the inevitable B.A.'s. Neither rain nor snow nor howling winds could halt the mad dash from the building to the lunch truck for between-class snacks each morning. Without a doubt each year produces a few individuals who manage to distinguish themselves in one way or another, and so it would be unfair to not recall a couple of these gentlemen. One has found fame as a movie critic, not having missed a single flick in town all year. He might well be called the "Eyes and Ears" of the class. The other might properly be named "The Mouth" of the class, as he might, upon seeing eight or ten people searching the floor frantically on hands and knees, be heard to exclaim, "Ha! Ha! Did you lose a crown or something?" Sigh.

And now another year is past. There is but one more left: a year in which we must prove to our professors and ourselves that we are worthy of entering the dental profession. With a little more perseverance and a touch of luck this will be accomplished. So move over, seniors; make room for the seniors.

As we, the Class of '65, began our Sophomore year, we quickly realized that the battle lines had been drawn. On our side were our own initiative and the knowledge of our professors. Our objective was to gain a knowledge uniquely ours. First we were to use the accumulative experience of our professors. Second we were to gain experience by working with our hands and minds and third we were to benefit from the sum of these two. Our enemy was laziness and lack of personal ambition. Exactly how the battle is going is an individual assay, and at first glance all may seem lost. But it is in the recognition of our goal that we find an important stepping stone to the realization of it.

As for classes we have gained an insight into dentistry as a healing art and the manifestation of its medical application. We have learned that, as dentists, we must be concerned not only with dental health as such, but with the ramifications of general health upon the oral cavity. Thus it is with a sound mental attitude that we hope to approach our final two years of Dental Education.

Socially, we have made some real progress. This past summer the wedding bells riddled our ranks and, as the holiday season approaches, the wedding march will again trample us. However, the single ones of us must be brave because even the worst can not be too bad.

Again we thank our untiring faculty and Dean Lyons for their guidance and sincere interest in each of us.

After many times of being freshmen, we found ourselves again in this lowly state, and like good freshmen we went through the pleasantries of orientation. In a few days we were ready to leap into the swamp of confusion in which we waddled for months.

The first quarter we spent many hours of pursuit in the "quiet" surroundings of the anatomy lab in quest of stimulating knowledge. And after gulps of histology, we quickly became ardent admirers of the homely mast cell.

We finished our first quarter realizing that the road was rough and we had not yet finished stumbling along its labored path. So, to make the path a little more tolerable, we gave a big party in honor of ourselves.

The second quarter was quickly upon us, bringing with it the mysteries of "brainology" and the undiluted Krebs cycle. This was the quarter we had all heard was the hardest, but nothing could match the "what am I doing" of the confused primary quarter.

When our class first got a look at each other, we began to learn a little of the profession in which we have chosen to try to learn all.

Our joy in being freshmen is that we will not always be one.

Eighty-one strong we entered MCV School of Pharmacy. Our histories were taken along with a "mug shot" which was never to be forgotten. We came from all parts of Virginia, from Florida and from Maryland. Not really knowing what to expect, but pleased with our roommates and impressed with the idea of attending a "Professional School," we attended our first college classes. In General Biology we began to figure out the MCV grading system ... somehow right minus wrong always put us in the hole. In Mr. Pohlig's Algebra class we learned how to make time pass quickly by setting up the clock.

Birth;
Yes, this was the start of it. To the class of 1963, the sophomore year marked the birth of Pharmacy Math. This was our first real pharmacy course and its teaching would never be forgotten — 10:x : 4 : 5. Neither will we forget Dr. Herman P. Thomas' revival meetings or Dr. J. J. Taylor's revolving platform. In organic chemistry we made our first medicinal-pink baby aspirin.

Death;
In the junior year the class of 1963 learned of the tragic death of old Tess and all those pigeons. This coupled with the fate of the Great White Whale in the tropic waters of the Antarctic proved to be quite a blow to the class morale. The cat and dogfish were dissected in comparative. Yes, this was a big year for the animals. Then, of course, there was the big election which showed the political prowess of the class of 1963. In Galenical lab and again in Dispensing we were told that a "gritty ointment is an abomination to pharmacy". When a label was used to cover this abomination, a newcomer to the Pharmacy Department efficiently removed it by hook or by stubby nail.

Infinity;
What in 1959 seemed like infinity, now in 1963 is coming to an end. In this, our senior year, we have been exposed to all the various areas of pharmacy. No other graduates will be able to make better calcium hydroxide-olive oil emulsions than we. No other group will be able to make a billion selling multiple vitamins or be able to explain the effects of physostigmine. Just ask a graduate of 1963 of the School of Pharmacy to place five bonds on a carbon atom—he'll be able to do it.

With the junior year came many new courses which will be remembered by all—how could we forget? We will always remember "Roots and Rhizomes" 301 taught to us by a "cotton-pickin" professor. The love of the digitalis plant has been instilled in our hearts, not for its beauty, but for its characteristic leaf shape. We will always keep close the memory of torn labels, "fishy" preparations and sinks which are well coated with Calamine Liniment. Galenical will always be "the eleven page exam" course. Along with these new subjects, we learned a little biochemistry. We discovered that calories do count and that it is better to wash with vinegar than soap.

Second quarter brought physical pharmacy, accounting and microbiology. Dr. Simonelli tried to explain why emulsions emulsify and how this can be interpreted from a graph by means of an equation. We may not have understood emulsions, but we were thoroughly indoctrinated with algebra and calculus. The laborious task of accounting was a real joy especially since we had the class until one o'clock on Saturdays.

But all was not work and no play for that makes pharmacists dull boys. We had our share of parties and fun. We will all remember Kamp Kentwood and the time that Dean Weaver had trouble finding a parking place. We have enjoyed the year and are looking forward to the time when we take our places among good pharmacists (who never guess).

We came back from summer vacation eager to see all of our old friends from last year and to make new friends with the transfer students which doubled our number.

As the year started we found that three classes, which looked easy, were quite enough to keep us plenty busy studying. But we still found time for entertainment and parties.

This year also gave us our class characteristic. We know we are not the smartest class to come to M.C.V. Pharmacy school; and we sure hope we won’t be known as the dumbest. But we are sure that we are the most accident prone class to ever enter a lab. The possibility of spilled acid, exploding bottles or broken test tubes have kept our labs very active. But — luckily no one was seriously injured.

We entered our first year in the School of Pharmacy with much anticipation and enthusiasm over meeting our new classmates and attending our new classes. The first week was a time for finding our way around the College and for meeting all of the upperclassmen. Our classes proved to be interesting and different from any we had ever attended. The physics experiments got a little dangerous at times with springs flying through the air. The frog offered a challenge (?) to the biology students, especially on Monday mornings. After a few tests, our enthusiasm died a little and we began to be recognized by the dark circles under our eyes after we had stayed up late studying for tests. However, we were encouraged by the upperclassmen’s, “If we passed that course, we know you can”. As usual we found that they were right.

With all of the studies, we managed to have a few good times at fraternity parties and in the dorms. At every function, one could depend on a good representation of the freshmen, even if we had several tests scheduled for the next week.

As we look back over the year, we realize this has been one of the shortest, happiest years of our lives. We await anxiously the sophomore year when we will finally have some true pharmacy courses.

"Hear the nurses voices ringing . . ." It hardly seems possible to us that four years have passed since we entered M.C.V. and Cabaniss Hall as uncertain but determined freshmen. Our first year although a very interesting one raised doubts that we would ever see the inside of the hospital or the patients we had pledged ourselves to serve. Our "sisters" in the Associate Degree program waved goodbye to us as they set out in white caps and uniforms to explore the hospital. We were envious and jealous.

Sophomore year brought blue uniforms and our clinical experience in Medical-Surgical Nursing. It raised another set of doubts: How in the world could we do everything our all-seeing, ever-present instructors expected us to do? How could we check the patient's T.P.R., bathe him, make his bed, rub his back, check his B.P., meet his psychological needs, reflect him, and record in just three hours? Our progress reports informed us how we could better do this! Our friends in the two-year program left us to enter the nursing profession, and we embarked on a long hot summer of study and Med-Surg.

"In our caps of white" and our white uniforms we were launched into our Junior year and our clinical experience in Psychiatry, Obstetrics, Pediatrics, and the Operating Room. Our new attire seemed to give us more confidence, and the doctors even spoke to us as if we were humans, the Operating Room being an exception. Here we dodged instruments, instructors, and an eight-armed plastic surgeon and gradually learned to close our ears to the "curious Language of the physician under stress". During this year we were joined by a new class of girls in the Associate Degree program who would graduate with us in two years.

We got our long-awaited black caps for our caps in a Student Association meeting in the fall.

We wondered how we would ever get through our Senior year. Advanced Medical and Surgical Nursing and Charge Duty experience scared and then frustrated us. Instructors' questions fell as steadily on our heads as rain. But we came out with a new approach to nursing problems and disease conditions and an ability to think as a professional nurse should.

The Emergency Room was exciting and busy. In the Diet Kitchens we learned how to plan low cost menus to prepare us for our meager lives after graduation. The Clinics made us aware of the many services M.C.V. offers. Public Health Nursing was a most rewarding and satisfying experience and required all the skills and knowledge we could muster up.

Of course we've had fun, too.

We've made lasting friendships with classmates. We've worked together, laughed together, matured together, and last, but not least, we've become nurses together.

"With the guiding hand of God above we will share our life and love."

Dear Mom and Dad,

Sitting here at my desk and gazing into space per usual, I decided to share some of my thoughts with you. It has just hit me that soon my junior year will be over. Dad, I know your pocketbook will be glad to hear that. Seriously though, this year, we juniors feel, has been one of the most colorful and fascinating of all our nursing experiences. For example, can you imagine your own “dear” daughter handling a Richardson retractor to a tall, handsome, but “nasty” surgeon? Of course you can’t. I can barely imagine it myself. Or can you feel the intense emotion as Judy (lives next door) asks a patient on psychiatry, “How do you ‘feel’ about being the mother of fourteen children and the wife of a traveling salesman?” Then there is the thrill while working on the maternity floor of holding a squirming little bambino who is all of two seconds old. Pediatrics presented a real challenge too as when trying to feed chocolate pudding to a little guy who had his mind bent on finger painting, then later finding out that getting run down by a wheelchair can be great for the shins. Really folks, I feel like the experiences of my junior year have not only prepared me for nursing, but they have also helped prepare me for life.

This year has not only been filled with nursing experiences, but times of fun and fellowship too. My weekends spent at home come foremost in my mind and these are always occasions to which I look forward. Mom, I sure want to thank you for always fixing my favorite meals such as ham croquette, “formed” potatoes, peas and onions, golden glow salad, divinity pudding, and warm coffee on those chilly Friday nights when I arrived unexpectedly. And Dad, thank you for keeping the house quiet so I could sleep late on Saturday mornings. For a student nurse, getting up at 10 A. M. can really be a treat after those daily 6 A. M. rallies calling me to duty.

Other affairs such as showers, weddings, weddings, weddings, parties, and picnics also added to the color of a busy year. I guess though if my class were to take a vote they would say that just the everyday friendships of the girls next door are most precious and will be most long remembered. In closing, I would just like to thank you for your part in my junior year. I hope my senior year will be as wonderful as I am already looking forward to a black band and black public health loafers.

Love,
Your daughter, S. N.

P.S. Please send me some money and some food.

Busy year, busy girls—busy studying, struggling, worrying, laughing, — busy achieving.

"Brace yourself," Tradition warned them as they began. "Sophomore year is a hard year, a long year—you may become discouraged."

Thus they entered, resigned to misery and struggle ahead, and longing for the year to be over before it had begun.

Truly, they did have a difficult mission to accomplish— one that required great thought, effort, and love. The girls did love their work, and because they loved it they found, as they took the matter in hand, that the actuality was much more pleasant than the expectation.

Granted the girls did know the taste of bad times. For the girls housed in blue uniforms the first experiences in the hospital were tinged with the fear and uncertainty of functioning in a new world. In the maze of the unknown the instructors were dear and familiar figures guiding them in finding their places.

For all there were days of feeling inadequate and unable to cope with the set task. But these girls were united, and when they grew tired and disheartened the rest were there to help.

Together they did what they had to do—and when they had finished they were rewarded. They had given much and it had pleased them to give.

September 5, 1962 marked the beginning of a new school year and with it 107 freshmen nursing students came to Cabaniss Hall. Being that college was a new experience for us, it was with much anxiety and perhaps more than a little fear that we came to M.C.V.

Our first week was one of the busiest that we have had so far — we rushed to and fro at picnics, dances, teas and meetings trying to get acquainted with our fellow-students. Some went on guided tours of the M.C.V. vicinity in order to know more about the locations of certain buildings, that is, the boys dormitories.

Only with considerable effort and a long list of mistakes behind us, did we finally get into the "swing of things." Although lights frequently burned far into the nights, the first quarter was not all work. It is with heads hanging low with shame that we admit to things done while everyone on the hall "let go," (usually the night after exams) things such as clothes stolen from the shower room to be deposited in the freezer, rolling marbles down the halls to the dismay of those below, short sheeting beds and practicing the can-can in the halls.

The surprise Halloween party, thrown by our big sisters, was only equaled by our Christmas "fiesta". Utter chaos reigned as presents were given out and passed across Cabaniss Hall living room, completely filled by freshmen and their big sisters.

The end of the Christmas vacation came too suddenly, especially for those with newly acquired diamond rings and there was little time to waste under the pressure of tests and term-papers due for January. There was always consolation in the approaching of the third quarter which marked the nearness of summer.

Our freshman year will be remembered by us, not only for its important events and new experiences, but for the new outlook on life that it has given us. It was a time of adjustment for a new world before us as well as a preparation for things yet to come—namely our long-awaited goals of becoming nurses.

On September 7, 1961, P.T. company '63, consisting of 23 junior rank students that had been drafted from all over the United States, assembled to begin their indoctrination in training to be an R.P.T. and to initiate their plans to "take" Fort Memorial Hall by 1963. Boot camp was a long year of trials and tribulations where we learned that we had never used our brains for thinking. Our chief commandant soon had us under her spell — we were both captivated and petrified by her knowledge. How many times did we have to answer that student-shaking question, "Now just what do you mean by that?" ... Afternoons were spent dismembering our strong, silent, and dis-stink-tive enemy. ... One of the hardest courses proved to be "the science of matter and motion" ... good old physics ... True to form, we developed classical pet names for our commanders ... Our weekend passes allowed us to break confinement as we traveled as far north as New York and New Jersey and as far south as Georgia as well as intrastate ... Through these mutual experiences the company became a closely knit group by the end of the year. With the coming of summer we headed for six weeks of field maneuvers in rehabilitation centers, V.A. and general hospitals, and the remainder of summer was spent recuperating from our extensive boot-training and preparing for our final year.

September 1962 found P.T. company '63, now 17 strong, assembled for officers candidate school. Even though we had progressed to OCS, we found we were still "s-t-u-p-i-d-" students who didn't know anything about setting up experiments. We were given endurance tests against such "sneaky" enemies as rats, frogs, and decerebrated and decorticated pigeons and a strategy course in "tracts". How well we remember those labs where we were facilitated and electrocuted. ... During the year we had four clinical field maneuvers, each lasting for one week. ... Two of our company changed their names. This complicated titles a bit — how do you address a married lady officer? ... We took time out from training to have a few parties — we had to have some exercise since we were already developing that middle age spread from sitting in classes eight hours a day. We still used our weekend passes rather frequently, journeying to New York and New Jersey once again, to hill-billy country, and to many other places. We hereby salute "Bessie", our faithful transporting friend on many of our leaves. ... At last, its June 2, 1963, the most important day of the year, the day we received our commissions to become R.P.T.'s.

"You are now in a professional school" are the words that greeted the nineteen new junior physical therapy students. We were unable to fully understand the meaning of this sentence until we realized that the Medical College is so much more than the college as we had known it before. We were now being led directly toward our main goal, which is to achieve professional status in the field of physical therapy.

Getting used to our eight to five schedule and making the best possible use of our out of class hours were lessons we had to learn in order to reach our goal. There is so much to learn in so little time.

It seems like such a short time ago when senior and junior students and the faculty were just getting acquainted at the senior sponsored picnic. Now, here we are, looking forward to our summer clinical experience. We hope we've learned well all that which has been presented to us this year and are prepared for our senior year to come.

SCHOOL OF HOSPITAL ADMINISTRATION
Twenty-one months and a humble feeling of some degree of attainment later . . .

We were told that the twelve months of residency just past would be the shortest period of time in our entire lives. Those who were skeptics are now believers. Little did we know that so much could happen in such a short period of time.

In June of 1962, after completing the 9 months didactic phase of our training, we scattered to hospitals throughout the entire Eastern United States to try our hand for the next twelve months at this profession called Hospital Administration. We wanted to learn that 90% of know how which can not be found in the text books.

Eager to try our wings, we spread them at the first opportunity only to find that they had just as eagerly been clipped. Not once, but time and time again—but we learned. We learned and will continue to learn the science of service to others.

With a confidence tempered with humility and shared with the knowledge that we have been fortunate enough to receive both a good formal and a good practical education in our chosen field we now set out to do that which we feel we must—provide the best patient care with the most practical means at our disposal.

After letters of reference, personal interviews, and transcripts, we were selected as those whose character, ability, and personality best assured a contribution to the field of hospital administration. And yet, as we have stepped from all walks of life to prepare ourselves as hospital administrators, we have found that our concepts of hospital administration were nebulous. There was much to learn. Thus with a deep desire to attain this goal we have set our sights toward the completion of the didactic phase of the program.

The philosophy of our program is to develop concepts of the professional hospital administrator as the link between the governing body and the people who provide actual patient care or services — physicians, nurses, and countless others.

In the words of Mr. Robert Hudgens, director of the School of Hospital Administration: "The school cannot hope to teach answers. Each administrator must ultimately find his own answers to his peculiar problems. The school can only bring the student into the environment of the modern hospital and introduce him to the organization and purposes of hospitals, and the management methods and philosophy which have been fundamental."

The class of 1964 earnestly hopes each man will measure up to the responsibilities of a truly challenging profession. To this end we have taken an important step — an academic year of intensive training. We now look forward to a second year in an administrative residency, where, under the guidance of a seasoned administrator, we shall study hospital problems on the inside in a manner similar to a medical residency. A focal point of our residency year will be the development of a master's thesis, which contributes new knowledge to the profession.

We will look back on this year as one in which we learned not only the fundamentals of hospital administration, but also the ideals and philosophy that will make us compassionate and understanding in our dealing with those who come to our hospitals seeking care.

SCHOOL OF MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY
When most of us arrived at M.C.V., we felt like freshmen again, carrying our maps and looking at each other rather sheepishly. When we changed from skirts and sweaters to hospital whites, our first few weeks were spent with blistered heels and worn out looks at five o'clock.

We began to learn many new words and our life became a maze of letters, which at first, we admit, reminded us of alphabet soup. Then with the skilled guidance of our instructors we began to fit our new knowledge together. A bit of accomplishment spurred us on through our courses. We learned more new terms than we dreamed possible in hematology, urinalysis, blood banking, bacteriology, chemistry, serology, parasitology and histology.

We were filled with apprehension and anticipation when our first day in the hospital came, and with it the inevitable 11:55 calls which meant "come back during lunch hour — you made a mistake."

We had our light moments too, as when Miss Thomas gave us her surprise parties or we sat around just talking.

At the end of six months we began to rotate through hospital labs which further broadened our knowledge.

In June we changed from our white uniforms to long black robes and mortar boards. The long awaited day of graduation had arrived.

Knowing that we will soon take our places in the medical team, we realize that our education has just begun. We trust that we shall continue to learn from each of our experiences.

GRADUATE SCHOOL
The School of Graduate Studies was formally organized in 1957 although opportunities for graduate work had been available since 1934.

The function of the graduate studies program is to train young, aspiring, and well-gifted students of science who show promise as teachers and research workers — to guide the young, inexperienced but inquisitive minds properly by well experienced advisors to serve the demands of modern scientific research.

The students admitted in this school are exposed to various seminars and conferences along with adequate course work which they take at this institution and other universities. They carry their highly specialized and individualized research works under the guidance of their own advisors.

SCHOOL OF
X-RAY TECHNOLOGY
As we anxiously embarked upon our careers as X-Ray Technicians in the fall of 1961, our eyes were opened to many experiences in just a short time and we learned that there was more in store for us than we had anticipated. We were assigned to various strategic x-ray areas including the emergency x-ray room, E. G. Williams x-ray department, 6th floor x-ray, M.C.V., St. Philip x-ray department, and last, but certainly not least, portables. Oh, those portable x-ray machines! Surprisingly enough we were never hospitalized for hernias or strained backs.

Our anticipation soon yielded to long hours of hard work and constant learning. It didn’t take long for us to realize that x-ray technicians were much more than “button pushers” or that one button produced an x-ray. We learned the whole circuit of the x-ray machine—what does what, when, and why!

Mass pandemonium arose many a time when we scanned the hospital for a sterile left handed screw driver for a hip nailing. Speaking of hip nailings—try placing a film under the table and under the patient under “several” layers of sterile drapes—contamination!

From buttons and bows, heads to toes, the new crop of interns brought us many woes. For them we x-rayed the affected spot, but more often we took a few more shots.

Time has a way of passing with amazing rapidity and soon we found ourselves assuming more responsibilities, learning special procedures and techniques, and taking “additional” films—never repeats. We discovered that we had too much material to learn in too short a time. We worked hard and we studied hard.

This was just the beginning of our knowledge. Our school gave of herself to us and her greatest gift was to teach us the qualifications necessary to become good x-ray technicians. We had but to accept.

For two years we have looked forward to graduation, and now we have reached its gate. We owe so much to our administration, our faculty, our residents, and our fellow students. We are ready to leave, but when we allow our minds to ramble over the patients, the operating room procedures, the long work shifts, the exasperating fluoroscopic examinations, the mischief, the moments of inspiration, and the million and one private memories that are the precious possessions of each individual, we know that we will keep these things for the proud vision of the future and benefit by them.

SCHOOL OF X-RAY TECHNOLOGY

Entering the new world of the M.C.V. X-Ray Department on September 5, 1962, we were 18 uncertain young women. Many of us did not know exactly what was expected of us—but, we soon found out. "Not just a technician, but a good technician," were the words mostly stressed that eventful day. We immediately began working toward that goal. Although we knew nothing about x-rays, we were assigned to any one of the various rooms, commonly called work stations.

During that first month, we all were busy adjusting ourselves to our new surroundings, observing, carrying cassettes, and were even trusted so far as to develop the seniors' film — but every night?!

By the second month we were stepping up in the world and were allowed to take chests and extremities. "Take in a deep breath — hold it — don't breathe or move. Yes sir, I am talking to you."

Then we began branching out. Special procedures were not too bad, but traveling the aromatic passageway, alone at night, to St. Philip (occasionally by way of the Capitol), well . . . . . . . . Invariably there was a portable along the way — STAT, of course.

By the holidays we found ourselves doing a little of everything. Rumors were out that the patient load would be lessened and that they would all be sent home. However, we decided that the staff must have thought we were giving green stamps, for the rush was on.

After the new year began, we renewed our resolution to be "good technicians" for our classes had been revitalized with a tad of anatomy by the Radiology Residents. Now at least we could read requisitions (excluding handwriting, of course).

Facing our last year, we look forward to every facet, including those eager inexperienced freshmen.

The Medical College of Virginia Hospital offers a one year course in hospital dietetics to young women who have a B.S. degree from an accredited college or university and who can meet specific course requirements. This course is approved by the American Dietetic Association, and upon completion of the course, interns are eligible for membership in the Association, and may hold positions in class “A” hospitals in the capacity of administrative, therapeutic, clinic, or teaching dietitians.

Each September, the course is begun and students live in one of the college dormitories. During training, students receive a mixture of lecture and practical experience in the various departments. Instruction is given under the supervision of graduate dietitians in the Department of Dietetics.

After satisfactory completion of the course, dietetic interns are granted a certificate from the Hospital Division and are eligible for membership in the Medical College of Virginia Alumni Association.

This is a capsule...

and it looks deceptively simple. Certainly not as complex as an x-ray machine, a fully equipped operating room, or a modern pharmaceutical analysis laboratory. But appearances can be deceiving. Into this capsule went countless hours of research, the clinical investigation of thousands of patients by scores of physicians and—finally—painstaking manufacturing controls. And—with the help of this capsule—physicians are able to provide more effective care for their patients.

Smith Kline & French Laboratories is dedicated to the discovery and manufacture of these seemingly simple medicines...prescription drugs which have revolutionized the physician's treatment of his patients.

That's the number filled last year by Peoples Drug Stores, an increase of 627,779 over 1961. Impressive figure, impressive public confidence . . . because behind all prescribed medicine at Peoples is confidence—in the physician who prescribes it, the manufacturer who makes it, the pharmacist who fills the prescription. We are proud to share this confidence with physician and drug manufacturer. At Peoples, nothing is so important as prescriptions!
